DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. See MPEP § 2173.05(c). Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claim 1 recites the broad recitation "for a switch", and the claim also recites "in particular in the medium-voltage sector" which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation. Claims 2-7 inherit the defect in their parent claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1, 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Yamazaki (US6373675), cited on applicant's IDS.

Yamazaki in figs. 3-4 discloses an electromagnetic drive having a magnet body (5), moving part (4,10), permanent magnet (7), conductor coil (10), soft magnetic latching body (4), and spring (11).

5. Claims 1, 3-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Toshiba (EP1124244A2), cited on applicant's IDS.

Toshiba in figs. 1 and 10 discloses an electromagnetic drive having a magnet body (81,83), moving part (4,82,84,88), permanent magnet (5,85), conductor coil (4,86), soft magnetic latching body (82,84), spring (16,89), and stops (81a).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Toshiba, cited above.

Toshiba discloses a latching body 82 connected to an (inner) end of a coil (4) but does not disclose the coil having a former. It was commonly known to those of ordinary skill in the art that a coil former may be used for the purpose of providing structural support and electrical insulation. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to employ a coil former in Toshiba for the purpose recognized in the art of Toshiba, as discussed above.

8. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamazaki, et al., cited above.

Yamazaki discloses a latching body 4 connected to an end of a coil 10 but does not disclose the coil having a former. It was commonly known to those of ordinary skill in the art that a coil former may be used for the purpose of providing structural support and electrical insulation. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to employ a coil former in Yamazaki for the purpose recognized in the art of Yamazaki, as discussed above.
